DEDICATION

We, the Annual Staff, as representatives of the Senior Class, dedicate our book to the embodiment of that spirit of enthusiasm and cooperation which has made our school great. May we who go to take our place in the community, as well as those who follow in the halls of O. H. S., keep in mind that as a good school is the product of a good community, so a good community is the product of a good school, each an inspiration to the other.

FAREWELL

The Annual Staff, along with the rest of the Senior section of the train, leaves its place in the O.H.S. caravan to strike out into the great beyond. We, the staff, take this opportunity to thank you for your cooperation "along the trail"—the greenhands will find the trail rugged and dusty in a vast wilderness of learning, but, like us, find the crossroads will come too soon. The script is written, the pictures taken, we're ready to go to press — the job of the Annual Staff as caravan chroniclers is completed, but it is up to you to keep alive the traditions that we, the forty-niners, have left to you.

ADMINISTRATION

Superintendent of School A. A. Kaskadden, the trail boss who looked ahead in search of possible danger and forewarned us. He drew the map, and we followed his chosen course, to our advantage — inspired us to go on when our morale was low — never faltering — always willing to help lead us on to our final goal.

Emma Lou Schoentag, log-keeper on the trail and general right arm to the trail boss. Pretty, efficient, and the “girl-on-the-line” who saw to it that supplies were ordered and the records kept straight. She capably filled an indispensable position.

School Board Members

Mrs. W. C. Elmer, Mr. L. E. Hilsabeck, president, Mr. M. G. Stebbins, secretary, Mr. R. W. Brant, Mr. F. H. Cook, Mr. Donald Strang.

The School Board

They provided the backing for this trip — allocated funds to do a good job — gave their time and effort to make provisions for our trip — made it “easier going” over the rough spots — all around good sports.

FACULTY

Always a good scout, Mr. Hoover planned the details of each day's travel — picked the camp sites for the remuda when all were weary — brightened up our journey with evenings of fun and laughter — spared no effort of his own to help us follow the straight and narrow.

Secretary to the principal, Mrs. Hanson checked innumerable "fine points" to lessen the confusion—rounded up the stragglers—kept at her fingertips quantities of information needed by the travelers — spent many hours assisting the leaders of our group.

With the last lap of their journey behind them, the Senior Caravan has many happy memories of the highlights of their travels—Picinny Picnic - Dances - "Our Town" - Sports - Homecoming - All School Variety Show - "Highways and Bi-ways" - Contests - Band Concert - Senior Picnic - Baccalaureate - Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom - and finally the "End of the trail"—Commencement.

Though much time, preparation, and hard work were needed for this ever-to-be-remembered journey, the Seniors capably blazed a trail for future pioneers to follow.

JUNIORS

President—Morton Ross

Vice-Pres.—Rollie Kappmeyer

Secretary—Sally Stebbins

Treasurer—Richard Riche

Gradually the Juniors branch of the caravan is journeying on toward the last lap in their trek through the field of education. These are the tenderfoots who will carry on after the '49ers have left the O. H. S. caravan.

Tho the '49ers will be sadly missed, the reigns are being left in capable hands, and without a doubt they will keep the caravan rolling at a good pace.

The highlight of the year is the traditional Junior-Senior banquet and prom, the gala occasion when buttons and bows, soft lights and sweet music, make this farewell to the Seniors a lovely memory.

SOPHOMORES

Now that the sophomores are well hardened in to the ways of the caravan—they will be able to give the wheels of 1950 some very capable support. Upon these sophomores' shoulders will be placed a good deal of responsibility, and we are certain that they will be instrumental in the locomotion of the caravan in the years to come. The main event in the sophomore journey was the annual sophomore picnic pitched along the trail at Backbone State Park, the traditional sophomore picnic grounds.

Stirring music for pep meetings, basketball games, and music for the dramatists provided that, as a new addition to the faculty, Mr. Wittmer has done a rip-roaring job.

Under the baton of Mr. Petermann the chorus worked hard and long, and brought forth a great deal of commendable work for our western march.

"OUR TOWN"

The Thespians proved that the spirit of revelry and fun, which existed among our forefathers, who gathered around the campfires and made the circle of covered wagons, still exists among the young people of today. The Thespians produced "Our Town," provided a grub-wagon for basketball fans, and changed the gas lights of the auditorium to electric. Their job was not to fight Indians, or move Westward, but they did help make O. H. S. a more pleasant place.

VARIETY SHOW

Highlights of the year and a spectacular success! The all-school variety show "Hiways and Biways." This gay, colorful show was sponsored by the School Council, directed by Miss McGivern and enjoyed by a capacity-filled auditorium on March 4, 1949.

New backdrops, colorful costumes, modern music and the minuet, and talent unlimited made this an event to be remembered by the students who produced it and the audience who lent their chuckles and applause to it.

Even a race against the dead line couldn't prevent the annual staff from shooting the variety show in action, the results of which appear on these pages.

The Newstaff skit, "Hot Icicles," took first prize for the main act with its humor, its music and its acting. "Yankee Doodle," Y-Teen's contribution to the main acts was a clever skit involving children from many nations and a certain "Miss Russia."

Soft lights, a dancing couple, southern ballads, and a tribe of cute black, dancin' "chillun" made up the senior skit into a regular Southern scene.

Attired in pinafores or jeans, the mixed chorus of Celwein High treated music from the great "Oklahoma" in a very professional and delightful manner.

The O. H. S. band presented their rendition of some popular songs and "beat out" a very dignified minuet while four students, attired appropriately, did a real old-time minuet.

A pseudo-sophisticate presenting interpretive poetry and a fellow selling pop corn kept up a lively, antagonistic conversation for their entra' act and received first prize in that category. A can-can done by seven girls was imitated hilariously by those big hulking things known as O' Club boys.

"Boots and Saddles" and "Buttons and Bows" lent a western flavor to this grand show.

Fine music by Celwein High's quartet and trio and a dancer on her way to South America helped to provide entertainment between curtains.

From the first "All Aboard" to the grand finale "Oklahoma", "Hiways and Biways" was Celwein High's "Biggest little show in the world."

Like the pioneer of one hundred years ago, the pioneers of 1949 need people trained in the basic skills of the sciences — the mathematics. Now as never before the math students and their club have a place in the world of tomorrow, the atomic age.

It was a rough season for the Oelwein Huskies and their coach, George Dutcher. Injuries plagued the team almost all season. Center, Jim Butler began the jinx with a bad knee injury which kept him out for seven weeks. Upon his return the team played full strength for one game, after which Rice was out for four weeks. Then Rice, nursing his injured back for tournament play, injured his foot and was unable to play the second tournament game. Nevertheless, the Huskies played hard and are to be commended for their fine spirit, determination, and many thrilling ball games.

Against rigid competition, the local grapplers suffered their first loss of the season. Taking the spotlight for the night were J. Meyer, A. Mendez, C. Hernandez, X. Beake, and N. Trocino, who gained decisions in this close match.

Cresco 31

In spite of the one-sided score, the locals fought a hard but losing battle against the state champs. The locals' only score came when C. Hernandez pinned his man to the mat.
